

Furman University Study Away Program: Academic, Environmental, Physical & Health Expectations

Program: Medical Histories and Mysteries (United Kingdom - Scotland & England)

Dates: May 9 - 28, 2018

*Request accommodations through the Student Office for Accessibility Resources (SOAR)

Course catalog description: This course will provide a survey of illness, health, and medicine from Antiquity through current research and innovations. It will examine the changing relationships between medical theories and practice and address the roles of practitioners, patients, and institutions. The course will also consider the experiences of health, illness, prevention, and treatment, while exploring the various social, cultural, political, and economic dimensions of these issues.
